“ My grandma was the best mawmaw in the world and I tried to tell her often. She was a sweet, funny, peace keeper and a bit of a worrier. I used to say she worried too much about everything...then I became her and started my own worrying. She could be feisty too but was truly one of the best people ever. When we were little my sister and I would cry every weekend if we didn't get to go to mawmaw and pawpaw's house. It was the greatest place on Earth as far as we were concerned! They probably couldn't figure out what they did to deserve our wonderful company every weekend and wondered how they could undo it. I will miss my mawmaw like crazy but I'm so happy for her because she has made it home to Heaven after a life well lived with people well loved. Her and pawpaw are probably dancing the night away now that they are together again. I love you mawmaw!

“ Mom with her dog Bella and her 2 roommates. Mom was an inside cat. She loved watching Jeopardy and Wheel of Fortune. She always wanted Al to watch Jeopardy with her. Mom helped me out folding towels. She really did like having something to do. One of her favorite things was playing the card game rummy. After mom ate lunch I would say what do you want for a snack. She would say, "Anything chocolate!". We couldn't have asked for anyone better to share our lives with. Mom will be greatly missed. She was a very special lady! We love you mom, Al and Sandy

“ I will miss Maye, a dear friend, whom I shared a love of books and lettering writing with. Such a kind and strong heart. Thinking of the family in this time of sorrow and loss.
