“ I'm so sorry that I wasn't there for you, sis. I only just found out you passed away. You were my sister and yet there is so much about you that I didn't know, and now I never shall. You were the only other member of the family that hand-crafted things, and were the inspiration behind my love of crafts as well. I remember as a child how you made beaded Christmas ornaments and hand-made ceramic figures that you then painted. I also remember you making homemade salt water taffy. I remember you being a quiet, soft spoken person and if we hadn't moved to another state I like to think we would have been closer. I loved you though and always will. I miss you and all that might of been.
