“ Hi, you dont know me but I knew Charles. I lived across highway 30 from him when I was growing up. On my first day of 5th grade I had to wait for the bus alone for the first time. I was nervous already but then a van drove by really slow with at least four men which made me even more nervous. I watched as the van turned around and came back towards me. In that moment Charles was walking down his driveway to get his mail. He yelled at the van who was almost at a complete stop in front of me. They took off after stating 'look its her grandma'. Charles waited with me until my bus arrived. As an adult, I know now how much I owe to this man. Without him I dont think I would be alive today. R.I.P. Charles.
