“ Hey Sreeja. I have stopped by a few times including today. I needed to drop off something for the school district. Snow was covering your really nice Christmas decorations. You would have made fun of me... I leave my sales call and stop by to say hello... In 4" heels walking through snow! You wouldn't expect anything less from me and were probably laughing at me during the process. Everytime I visit you I can only laugh...that is all we did.
