“ Crystal, my sister, and I found each other later in life (we had the same father). When we finally met in person as adults, we became instant sisters/friends and shared a very special bond. I also fell in love with my niece, Rachel. Crystal loved Rachel so very much and she was so very proud of her! I am very proud of Rachel too! My favorite memory is when Crystal took me around to where she had grown up and we played under the trees and climbed up high on equipment to look out, which she said was one of her favorite places. It felt like we were both little girls together that day. I love you Crystal💜
