“ I have lived next to Corey and Jackie for over 6 years now. Not a day went by that I didn't see Corey outside with Easton. He was always playing with him, teaching him baseball, laughing while playing on the tree swing. In fact, my dog gets in the window and looks over every evening around the time they would be outside.

There was never a time when Corey saw me that he didn't smile, wave and make sure I was doing ok. He taught Easton how to wave to neighbors. I loved seeing those two together.

Corey loved Jackie with everything he had. He was always happy coming home.

Rest well, Corey. Thank you for being so caring, mowing the part of my lawn that was difficult for me and teaching me that kindness makes a difference in everyone's life in a simple smile and wave. I'll miss you and will always watch over your family for you.

Funny Story: Corey told me this after it happened. We had some new neighbors who moved across the street from Corey and Jackie. Their little girls were selling rocks one day. Corey, the one and only, went over there and bought two, but only had a $20. They thanked him and said they didn't have change. He said he didn't want to be a jerk (I don't think that is even possible for Corey) so he thanked them and went back home. The mom eventually found out and gave Corey his money back, but we had a good laugh about that. He was just trying to be nice and got hustled. hahaha
