“ Gary was a much beloved cousin who kept his Florida relatives connected to news about the St. Louis clan. We all looked forward to the trips he and Beth would take to Florida. Gary was unfailingly kind, witty, and a patient and interested listener. We will miss him dreadfully. Love and sympathy to Beth, Laurie and all Gary's friends and relatives who will miss him, too.

“ I met Gary when I was a teenager. We were pretty young when they got married (they were, too!) It was pretty exciting when Beth decided he was "the one"! They certainly figured out how to make love and marriage work. And Gary approached his diagnosis with such determination that he amazed everyone, including his doctors! A favorite memory was when he retired. I teased him about having a perpetual grin on his face from that day on! Gary, you left quite a legacy of gratitude and joy. You taught us all how to embrace every single day we're given! Thank you.

“ You can still find Gary's 2016 "15 minutes of fame" by Googling "70 year old man beats the odds." Technology lets me still see and hear my husband of 46 years.

“ Gary and Laurie lived one street away from us in ST. Louis. When I would go over to their house to play, once in a while Gary would play with us too. He was usually out doing his teenage thing, but one time I can remember we all played we were eggs in a frying pan. He had us laughing so hard! Everyone loved Laurie's big brother. A truly great person with a dry wit that could bring a room of people to tears with laughter. And a gentle soul. He will be missed.

“ Gary was a kind and loving man. I remember all the visits he and Beth made to visit their California cousins. They also made a trip to Washington to visit man years ago. My love goes to Beth and the rest of the family. My heart is with you.

“ Many memories from 45 years of a friendship, but the current one from last October says a lot about Gary always being observant and interested in others. While visiting with us in Arkansas, he and Beth spent the day at Crystal Bridges then had dinner with us. While at CB, Beth was able to share some of her “string skills” with a stranger in the museum bookstore and Gary, as always, was such a part of the conversation by listening and he quickly found the string art book and brought it over to the stranger who was learning so many things from Beth. He loved that Beth used her “string skills” to visit with children and parents. He was ALWAYS proud of Beth and that he was blessed to spend his life with her.

The other part of the visit was their time in our home and he patiently followed Jim from room to room listening to Jim’s stories (maybe not understanding them at all, but he knew he was to give his time to his friend.)

On their drive home, Gary said, “ He talks a lot.” Beth knew the reference was to Jim. Then, my favorite ,” She’s pretty.” With that I wanted Gary to come visit everyday. !!❤️

He . Was. The. Best . Friend. Missing him already.
