“ My sister Jeanie was born in Ft. Wayne. Indiana in 1943. Our father was in the U.S. Army. While he was still going to school all over the United States, I came along 2.5 years later, in Tacoma, Washington. After the war ended we came back to High Ridge where our father was from. Grandma and Grandpa Dautenhahn owned a small farm and we grew up-over the pond and thru the woods.

Jeanie was in the Honor Society in school, and after Graduating from school got a job at STIX,BAER AND FULLER, downtown. She bought the prettiest clothes, and sometimes I would wear them in my senior year and run a seam to make them fit me.....she was not happy about that!

Teenagers! She went on to marry Delmar Bell, our neighbor. She had one child, Melody. Together she and Butch ran their asphalt business.

They had a great marriage and traveled in the winter and enjoyed many activities together. They were always together. Jeanie was never the same after losing Butch. She mourned tremendously. I loved them both very much as did all their relatives and many friends. They are now together again with Jesus. Nothing greater than that! 🙏❤️❤️❤️🙏 “ Jeanie is my only sister. Guess my earliest memory of her is from about 4 years old.....she would stick close to mom, while I would always gravitate to Dad's big rig. She was a good sister, and throughout my life never said no to me when I needed her. As I raised four children, we did not see one another as often as we would have liked. We dreamed of going on short little trips together once we got older. We did get to go to Tacoma, WA to see family together about 15 years ago. That was a great trip. My mother's family all lived in Tacoma, Seattle area.

I know Jeanie is in heaven with our Jesus. We were raised in St. Martin's church from our early years. We learned who Jesus is. She-is safe "at home".

I love thinking about her being welcomed by all our beloveds. Such Joy and Peace. 🙏❤️🙏🥰🙏🥰🙏❤️🙏

Love, from Eileen
