“ Hello, I am offering my deepest condolences and prayers to your family.

I worked with Jeff Brown when we were located in the Olivette Building. One of my fondest memories is when he reached out to me regarding an issue with a application. He rarely ever asked me for help. Normally, I try get something 'extra' out of my coworkers when they ask me to help with something. Usually, I say you owe me a six pack of Diet Pepsi, but I can tell you all I would get were promises to provide me with my soda. When Jeff reached out, I told him that I would like some Vodka and Cranberry juice. He said OK! Honestly, I really was joking when I mentioned that but that Monday when we returned to work, there was the biggest bottle of Vodka that I had ever seen and a gallon of Cranberry juice on my desk. I said "Jeff, I was joking!", but he said that I really helped him when he needed it and he was glad to give it to me. I put that alcohol in my drawer REAL QUICK until I could get a box to take it home. I still chuckle when I relive that memory.

That's a good memory. It makes me smile. And it made me remember that he went to Wisconsin and brought me (and our team) back "cheese head" hats. :) I still have that "cheese head" hat in my closet.

I worked with Jeff for many years at several different companies, and we had a friendship that will last past this life. I am just devastated and will miss our dinners together, which were too far between. I wrote a memorial for you, my friend. Just know... You made an incredible difference in my life. Jeff was my real tech mentor and a lifelong friend. I miss you, sir. This life will just simply be the same without you in it. ~ Vince
