“ Kevin, I did not know that dropping you off at your house would be the last time that I would see you on that day. You did a great job on my path around the pool. It looks great. But, you didn't do my windows yet, Kevin! I could keep you busy for a very long time. I just don't know how long my money would hold out to pay you for your services. I miss you so much. You knew I was going through another rough time in my life. I wish you were still here to help me through it. I remember what you told me and I would say the same thing too! Except, I added a lot more choice words to go along with yours. But, losing you is so much more than what I'm going through right now. Every time there's something I see that needs to be done, I want to call Kevin. But, Kevin is no longer with us to call. Just know we feel a deep loss with you gone and nobody will replace that loss. If you think Kevin was a stinker when he was little, he was more of a stinker the older he got. Just ask his Dad! I hope you are dancing and singing and enjoying reuniting with your Grandma and Grandpas and the rest of the family. I love you Kevin with all my heart! Love, Aunt Cookie

Kevin I have put off posting about your death because I just can't believe that you are gone now too. I wish that you would have called me.

I hope that you are enjoying yourself now that your stress and pain are gone.

I remember you comforting me after Crystal passed. I also think of the balloon release the hug and the words I Love you.

I love you too and will miss you always.

“Kevin lived with me for so long and did so many things for me. Whether it was helping me do repairs around the house, fence mending, helping me working on my antique car, grass cutting, and helping me work on the garden. Don't know how I'm going to get along without him? I feel dual feelings... I feel the absence of his presence. But at the same time I feel his presence. And both feelings suck. I've had to close his bedroom door and keep it closed. At this point his bedroom is exactly how he left it. Don't have the heart to change a thing just yet. I love you Kevin. And I miss you terribly all ready. I know you're in heaven now and at peace. I know you're with your grandma. And you've met your two grandpa's that you never met because they both past on long before you were ever born. And I know you and Crystal are there together and having the best time ever. Tell your grandparents hi and that I love them. And give Crystal a kiss and hug for me and tell her that I love her. I love you Kevin. RIP Son. I'll see you again one day.”

I truly miss Kevin. When I would come to St. Louis, he was always excited to see me. He had such a good heart. His laughter was contagious. His smile was so brilliant. His willingness to help out when needed was outstanding. His relationship with his sisters and brother was priceless. I truly miss him.

“ I just don't even know what to say that hasn't already been said by everyone else. I'm so glad we grew closer within the last year; I'm going to miss you calling me, and tell me to come over and help you eat all the fried chicken you would make. Thank you for always helping me out when I needed it. You were so care free and full of life and didn't care what anyone would think. You would give anyone the shirt off your back if needed. You will be missed by so many and always loved. Love you Kevy.

“ You were always there for everyone, and I wish I was around more. I've grown up with you always around. You used to take us all to six flags and have a blast. You've taught me so much, you even shared your taste of music with me not too long ago. I miss you. More than I can even explain. I love you.
