“ Sre, I can't begin to explain how much I still miss you every single day. Lola still gets up at night with tears in her eyes and says, "Mama, I just can't stop thinking about Sreeja." I know you sent me a new friend yesterday (made me commit a random act of kindness to get him, though, didn't you? <3). He quoted letters you had written me without having ever seen them... I know you saw my slipping and guided that. Thank you. I need someone with our brand of weird. ... I sure wish I could hear that old typewriter I got you clanking furiously is our "smoking lounge" while we spiraled out in caffeine fueled creativity... I miss everything about you. I'm working on a project with Lady and Rupert. I wish I had his letters still... I'm going to have someone tear the internet apart looking for them. Stay close to me through this... You know how much I need you.

“ Sreeja, your smile and radiant energy will be missed. You had a way of making others feel truly important and loved. I can only hope that you can now have that love and peace for yourself. It was an honor to know you.

“ Your beautiful bright smile, deep, shining, dark eyes and all you possessed inside...will be missed So!

"You're in the arms of the angel

May you find some comfort here"

Peace~
