“ Mary is my mother's (Teri Siddens) cousin-by-birth, sister-by-choice. For many years there is an annual gathering of the "cuzin's" in Branson, Mo. Because I live close to Branson; I would crash the party! The most enjoyable part was being witness to the group's visits, reminisce the old days and laughing at/with each other! It seemed as I got a glimpse of what they were like together as kids.

There was not want for a good cook! On 2021 visit, I asked Mary to show me how she made her dinner rolls; I'm challenged when it comes to bread making. I was ready to take notes, measurements etc. There were none....her teaching method was "a pinch of this, about that much". lol I attempted to repeat her process.....my first batch were hockey pucks!

I will miss Mary sharing her talents, humor and those flip-flop with socks :)

Thanks for making a difference Mary. xoxoxo

“ I remember meeting Maryann in about 1978. My brother, John Winslow, knew her from McDonald's where they both worked. Our families always got together when we visited Missouri. She was THE most welcoming, warm person I had ever met. She was definitely a lover of God and always spread His and her Love to everyone she met! I will sorely miss her.

*To have known her is to understand,
The loving heart of MaryAnn.
Ever a smile and a soft, kind word,
Never judgmental, such thoughts were absurd.*

*A mom and a grandma whose ebullience purred,
Her love for her kiddos was never deterred.
She always had time for whatever it took,
Be it cooking or crafting or just sharing a book.*

*She loved a full house filled with family and friends,
For an hour, a day or through weekends.
Sharing her time with those she loved,
Was all she asked from Heaven above.*

*Sharing and giving is what kept her spry,
That, and her smile and the twinkle in her eye.
And trying new things, like dulcimer notes,
And arranging trips to the Ozarks' slopes.*

*It's said moss won't grow on a rolling stone.
And now that Mary has been called home,
No moss can impede her as she sails from these shores.
We will cherish her love, 'til we see her once more.*
