“ As a graduate of the School of Architecture at Washington University, I only have fond memories of Myrl. I had a part-time job during graduate school helping her with the copying needs for the school. These were the days when there was only 1 Xerox machine on campus. So, I ran the mimeograph machine. So was always so calm and patient with me and everyone. You could never tell if there was a crisis going on because she always maintained her composure. We always said that although she "trained" 5 Deans, she really ran the school. She will be missed but always remembered as one of my favorite people from my days at Givens Hall.
