“ I grew up just a few houses down from Bob (he was Bobby then) on Carol Park Road in House Springs. We played baseball in our backyard, waded through the creek that ran way down in the back of all of our houses, climbed up through hilly woods, sat and sifted through baseball cards -- he had the best collection! -- and, much more. As we got a bit older, my brothers and I would sit and listen to him play his guitar, and I was always among the crowd at House Springs Park & Pool when the band he was in was playing. Bobby was an integral part of growing up, and oddly enough, I was just thinking of him a couple of weeks ago and telling stories about our adventures. I was two years older than Bob, so I graduated and went off to college, and I don't think I've seen him probably since that time, but he was a good friend to me and my brothers and sisters and to others in the neighborhood. It is so lovely to read what a good and gentle man he grew up to be. It's exactly as I would have expected. I am so very sorry for your loss. -- Diana George

“ The thing that sticks out most when i think of our brother Bob, was his wisdom. He would listen if you came to him for advice or an ear to listen. He would give scripture to advise or comfort. I learned alot from him during a difficult time. He was so respected and looked up to in our family and we are gonna miss him so much. I want to add, that this picture really reminded me of just how handsome a man he was.
