“ I really miss my aunt Tami. It doesn't even seem real that she is gone. It's so weird to log on Facebook and not see a notification from her liking one of my pictures or commenting on one of my statuses I put. Looking through my phone and seeing her name under my contact, knowing I can not reach out to her and just talk. Or send a text saying I love her. I hate it. I hate that she is gone. I hate that she's not with is anymore. The holidays or birthdays are not going to be the same without her here. I question why God called her home, why he let her leave, why he took her from us. I don't understand. Why did she go so unexpected? So out of the blue? I love her so much. She was one of my favorites. I remember how her hugs felt, how she laughed, how she talked, and her attitude. I remember when I was little, it was Christmas time and we all went to my grandmas, I was sitting on her lap opening a gift and she just randomly started tickling me, where I couldn't breath anymore, my mom took a picture, the smile on her face is just beautiful, She was beautiful. She always had your back. Whenever there was a problem she was there. But she also had a big heart. Very loving and caring. And that's what I loved most about her. You could tell her literally anything, she'd either laugh and give you advice, or tell you to straighten up lol. I love and miss her very much. One day I hope to see her again. To hug her again. It's so different without her here. But then I have to remember, She may not be here physically, but she is spiritually. Living it up with Jesus.

“ It's been 16 days since God called you home, I know you are in no more pain and the Beautiful sights you are seeing, knowing all this puts me at ease but, I still want you here with us. A light has forever gone out with you gone, I will always cherish the years we had you, I have begged for more.. just one more day. That is selfish on my part, I love you so much sis. You are the Rock to this family. Not one of us can fill your shoes, it will take the whole family to be all you have been for us. Rest my Beautiful sister Tami.

“ When someone we love dies, it seems as if time stands still. And silence... a quiet sadness... often can be felt, not just heard, a longing for one more day... one more word... one more touch... And we may not understand why God chose to have her leave this earth so soon, or why she had to leave before we were ready to say goodbye, but little by little, we will begin to remember not just that she died, but that she lived. And that her life gave us memories too beautiful to forget. We will see her again someday, in a heavenly place where there is no parting. A place where there are no words that mean goodbye. To Tami's husband, children, parents, brothers and sisters, and her countless friends: the measure of a person is not based on what they have accumulated in life, but rather, the hole they leave in their loved ones' hearts when they leave us. By that measure, though now we mourn her untimely loss, as time passes we can begin to celebrate her life. A truly gentle soul, she will be missed, but never forgotten.

“ We didn't know Tami. But we know and love Ashley. If Tami was half the kind hearted person that Ash is, then she must have been a truly wonderful person.
